THE ATOMIC BOMB WEAPON FOR PEACE?

Tuesday's headlines and radio broadcasts were almost entirely devoted to the "atomic bomb." This frightful engine of destruction employing an explosive force equal to 20,000 tons of TNT, was dropped on a Japanese army base. At the time of its announcement about the bomb some hours later, United States Secretary of War Stimson said the results of the bomb's fall had not yet been photographed because of the clouds of dust and debris still covering the target.

The development of the atomic bomb has been often forecast. Science has sought ways of releasing atomic energy ever since the atom was recognized as the basic unit of the universe. Now, near the climax of the bloodiest years of war the world has ever experienced, comes news of success.

In the first rush of enthusiasm over this historic event, foremost in our thoughts is gratitude that the United Nations, not our foes, were the successful ones. With this gratitude is the sobering reflection that it is now conceivable that one nation may completely destroy another in the space of a few hours.

While evidence of its tremendous destructive force is still being gathered, the atomic bomb is being called a sure guarantee against future wars. It is reasoned that the very threat of the use of such a weapon will make nations abandon all thoughts of war. This negative persuasion is not enough.

The penalty of another war as forecast by the development of air power after the first great war, horrible as it appeared, was still not enough to prevent this war. The development of air bombing in the last war, and the atomic bomb in this have not materially changed the principle that he who strikes first most often wins the battle. The nation which strikes first with atomic bombs would destroy its opposition before it could reply. It would be a gamble but Hitler was prepared to take the same risks in 1939.

No, the realization of the destructive power of the atomic bomb is not in itself the complete answer to war. It must be supplemented by international goodwill, by recognition of a common justice for all nations, by equity of treatment, and by a just share in the world's bounty.

CORPORATION OR INCOME TAX?

The present dominion-provincial conference brings new emphasis to a need for federal revenues in excess to those received in pre-war years. The "billion dollar program" to provide jobs, pensions, health insurance and other forms of social security impose upon the federal government the necessity of a continuing high tax levy.

While admittedly, taxes will not continue at their wartime level, they cannot be reduced to the pre-war figure. A question which federal tax experts must answer is whether the reduction will be made in corporation taxes or income taxes. A recently published pamphlet by Walter L. Gordon, entitled Post-War Taxation, puts a strong plea forward for continuing corporation taxes and reduced income taxes.

Briefly, Mr. Gordon's evidence in favor of the reduced income tax is as follows. To reduce the cost of production, more efficiency in production must be obtained. This involves encouragement of the managerial class, foremen, superintendents, department heads, engineers, and management generally. Reduced income taxes would permit greater salary return for this class with, presumably, correspondingly increased efforts on their part.

A reduced income tax will enable greater saving for the man who wishes to lay money away with the thought of starting a business of his own. The income tax paid by such a man would go a long way towards providing the initial capital for a new enterprise. Other advantages include easier administration of taxation.

Mr. Gordon does not propose, however, that corporations continue to carry the heavy burden of taxation they now do. He advocates an immediate rescinding of the 100 percent excess profits tax. He does not, however, favor too much of a reduction in the corporation income tax of 18 percent, nor the additional minimum rate of 22 percent (12 percent for companies earning less than $5,000) under the excess profits tax act.

The 100 percent excess profits tax is, the author says, a definite barrier against expansion which is necessary to provide jobs. The 40 percent total income and excess profits taxes might be reduced to 30 percent but hardly less. He urges special tax consideration to new industries and basic industries in order to encourage them.

On a basis of approximately half the present income tax revenues and a 30 percent total corporation tax, instead of 40 percent plus 100 percent excess profits tax, the author estimates that there would be an approximate reduction in government revenues of $550,000,000 which on the basis of 1944-45 estimates would mean a yearly revenue of slightly over two billion dollars as against expenditures of 500 million dollars in 1938.

OVER-ALL PLAN NEEDED

In these columns two weeks ago, immediate action to widen Main St. was urged. Since then, it has been suggested that two obstacles stand in the way of such a project. The first is lack of manpower, the second, expense. In our opinion, these obstacles can be surmounted now to provide at least temporary relief. It would require no great number of men to remove the 18-inch curbing on either side of Main St. to give an additional three feet of roadway. Nor does it seem that the cost would be great.

Manpower and cost do figure largely, however, in any over-all plan to renovate Main St. Even though such a task be postponed by the removal of the curbing, the work must sooner or later be undertaken. To do the sort of job that would make Newmarket synonymous to ample parking space, wide thoroughfares and convenient shopping facilities would require heavy expenditures and employment. If that sort of job is in the minds of those who raise the objections to lack of manpower and heavy expense, surely there can be no disagreement with removing the curbing now and planning for the future developments.

During the war in Europe, we have become accustomed to postponing necessary improvements because of the conditions imposed on us by war. The repair of municipal sidewalks, for example, has had to be postponed because of the war. It has been considered a postwar activity. What we forget is that the postwar period is actually upon us. If it is still not feasible to act, it is certainly necessary to plan now so that when conditions warrant it, there need be no delay in implementing a program of local improvement.

A complete blue-print of public improvements with a budget designed to finance them is needed at once. Opportunities have been lost because such a design was lacking. A good example is the lowering of the tax-rate, done at a time when the municipality could best afford a high levy. The money which would have been accumulating by lowering the tax rate only one mill instead of four would have gone far towards financing town improvements. If the council has some definite plans for the future, such opportunities will not be lost in the future.

AN UNREASONABLE PROTEST

All too often the protest is heard when some plan for municipal improvement is being discussed that it benefits only one section of the town at the expense of the others. For example, it is said that to widen Main St. would be to benefit only the merchants and be an expense without return to those who have no connection with Main St.

Nothing could be more unreasonable. A wider Main St. would affect merchants, there is no question about it. It would bring them increased business and with that increase, the need for larger quarters, for more sales help, provision of better services, a wider range of goods. As more business was brought to Main St., the greater the demand would be for means to handle the increase. Certainly the merchants would benefit. And so would the rest of the town.

The increased business on Main St. would mean greater opportunities for young people. It would mean work for the builders, the painters and the decorators. It would mean more money in circulation in the town to pay for professional and health services which formerly could not be afforded. It would mean bringing to Newmarket new businesses which would provide new benefits to customers. Provision of more services in Newmarket would keep within the town the money that is spent in outside centres.

But this is not the end. A heavier volume of business would mean an increase in real estate values and a corresponding increase in assessments. This would take some of the tax burden from the householder, as well as providing through a more prosperous tax roll greater benefits to the citizen in the form of improved schools, parks, and other municipal services.

There is absolutely no doubt that any improvement which can bring more business to the Main St. merchant will ultimately benefit the town as a whole.

In Passing

The British people are still exercising their penchant for nick-names, according to a report from London. They call the atomic bomb, the "Tommy-bomb."

A distinctive feature of a rural community is the way telephone and electric light poles are utilized as community bulletin boards. In all seasons, brightly colored posters decorate the poles. They may announce a hockey match or an auction sale, a concert or a society tea. Long after the event has come and gone, a remnant of the poster can be seen fluttering from the pole, reminding the passers-by of the event.

A new slant is given on the current shortage of trained help by the Co-Optimist, organ of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool organization. The Co-Optimist tells of a customer who entered a restaurant and ordered a hamburger. The newly hired waitress placed it before him. "Can I have some ketchup?" he asked. "Ketchup?" responded the girl in a puzzled tone of voice. "Yes, ketchup. The red stuff in the bottle over there," said the customer pointing. The girl went off to get some and the customer turned to his meal. When he looked up, a freshly opened bottle of ketchup with two straws placed in it stood before him.

The plane which has been circling the town recently has become a considerable nuisance. It is not very pleasant for the sick or the children in bed to hear the noise of its engine without being able to locate the source. It is certainly no inducement to sleep. If the pilot has friends in town before whom he wants to demonstrate his skill, we suggest he has given sufficient evidence of it as well as a lack of consideration and that he go away now.

Former Bandmaster Lists Requirements For Music

By ORVILLE GANTON

In response to a recent article, a reader writes and asks how to recognize musical talent in children. Generally, musical talent is analysed in the following indispensable fundamentals:

(1) The ability to perceive pitch, which means that one should be able to distinguish minute differences as one note varies from another "up" or "down" in the realm of sound. (2) The ability to distinguish slight variations in intensity or to use a more simple phrase, difference in "loudness" or "softness". (3) The ability to perceive differences in time. People usually calculate time intervals by tapping with the toes or fingers. (4) A fourth characteristic that is closely related to time in the ability to perceive rhythm. Some children have the ability to execute very complicated rhythms. (5) The fifth factor, which is probably more the result of training than any others mentioned is known as consonance. The ability to distinguish sounds which combine smoothly from those which appear to be rough and poorly fused. (6) The sixth requirement for musical performance at least and for musical appreciation as well, is the ability to remember sequences of sound or melodies and is known as memory.

A further characteristic is the ability to recognize timber or quality of sound. Most people could recognize the difference between a note played by a cello and that of a trombone, although many people may be confused if asked to pick out a cello note from that of a clarinet in the chalmers register.

Children do not always show ability in all the factors. For example, if a child shows marked ability in five of the factors but was rather low on pitch discrimination he might be well advised

TO THE EDITOR

The Editor, The Era and Express: Will you please send me ten copies of The Era and Express of Aug. 2. The article by Dorothy L. Bowman is wonderful. She is quite an exception among mothers. It is a pity all mothers in our land cannot read it and follow the fine example.

There is nothing needed more today than the discipline of our children.

I have been in many of the large cities in Canada and U.S.A. the last six years and to witness the action of young people from two to 20 years, occupying seats on street cars while old women are standing, this with the sanction of parents, accompanying them, is a sad spectacle.

I can well remember the time when this would not be seen. The home and family is the starting point and we will never see a better world without a change in this respect.

Very truly, to avoid instruments where he must provide his own pitch such as the violin or trombone.

Through radio, phonograph records and other means, greater opportunities are present today for testing musical aptitudes than hitherto. It is likely that more people than we ever dreamed of could learn to become singers and instrumentalists to the point of amusing themselves and others and increasing the enjoyment of life generally. We must not overlook the beneficial result of music upon a person's own state of mind and the opportunity that it provides to enrich life.

MIDSUMMER BEAUTY

By GOLDEN GLOW

As I sit here at my writing table I can see a row of varicolored hollyhocks ranging from deep red, through different shades of pink, to pure white. Some particularly beautiful specimens are a brilliant scarlet. Never have hollyhocks been so lovely as this summer as anyone will tell you for usually their foliage has turned a yellowish brown, all the way up the stalk, by this time. They stand so straight and so tall swaying gracefully in the breeze for all the world like dainty ladies in their summer dresses.

But it was really of the wild flowers I was thinking, the wonderful wild flowers that outclass themselves this year. A drive through the country is a pure joy to a flower lover. The roadside is just now whitened with Queen Anne's Lace or the wild carrot, with its fringed foliage and exquisite lace blossoms, swaying gently in the breeze. Right along the edge of the dusty country roads the dear, little, daisy-like flower we call the May weed is blooming—it follows the dandelion which earlier in the season borders on highways and covers whole fields with its gold.

We went down Dufferin St. the other day and the roadside, even whole fields, were a heavenly blue with corn cockle blossoms, but on our return about noon they were all closed up. You will look in vain for them unless it happens to be cloudy for they bloom only early in the morning and the place where they grow and which so delighted the eyes, looks drab and gray. If you did not know of this peculiar habit of the "chicory" you would think someone had been busy either picking the flowers (what a job) or cutting them down. I wonder is it the same chicory folks put in coffee?

By the wayside, too, are the sweet smiling, but prickly, thistles that the butterflies love. You sure wonder why the Scots chose it as their emblem. The Scotch thistle is as well known as the shamrock of Ireland or the rose of England. Of course there is a legend to explain it.

It seems that when the Danes invaded Scotland they decided to creep up on the Scottish camp silently by night and catch them unawares. So they marched barefooted. However, they did not take the thistles into account and when one of the invading Danes stepped on one unexpectedly he naturally gave a yowl and danced round on the other foot, getting deeper and deeper into trouble. Of course this naturally woke up the sleeping Scots who sprang to the attack and saved their country. In gratitude they forever took the thistle for their country's emblem.

Oh there are so many, many wild flowers in bloom this week. I know I can't recall them every one but of them all I think the Black-eyed Susan is favorite. I have a jar of them beside me on one side and a vase of Dorothy Perkins' climbing roses on the other and I can't say which I prefer for both are so lovely. The yellow daisy, as it is often called, is as dear to us as the Marguerite or ox-eyed daisy that flowers in June and early July and makes whole fields white. It and the buttercup bloom at the same time, following the dandelions.

Then you'll see whole patches of Bouncing Bet, a queer sort of pinky flower on fairly long stems covered with foliage, and Tansy, with its fern-like leaves and rows and rows of wild buckwheat and yellow Elecampane with clumps of white Everlastings here and there. The wild delphinium with its royal blue flowers and the toad flax or butter and eggs as children call it, can be seen, too, as well as the ragged red flowers of the bee bane or wild bergamot.

I have a Tansy in my flower bed I left in because the foliage was so dainty and a red flower bergamot is growing up right through it and I have seen people step over to have a look-see. I wonder if they think I have a new variety.

Before I finish this rambling article I want to say I am not sure if the lovely sky blue flower called the chicory is really the corn cockle but some folks say it is—it goes by several names, blue corn flower mostly, but never mind the name. Just be sure and look for it right now—it is lovely.

Presently the Michaelmas daisy and the red and yellow devil's paint brush and the golden rod will be in bloom and we will know the summer is nearing its end. Yes it is August and our lovely summer is waning, as you will notice by the lessened light morning and evening.

I keep recalling more and Simon Ramer, both of Newmarket.

THE COMMON ROUND

By ISABEL INGLIS COLVILLE

SATURDAY NIGHT ADVENTURE

I suppose that Saturday night has always had a spice of adventure in its make-up. My mother tells me that when she was a small girl, 87 or 88 years ago, she and a smaller sister were bathed in a big tub which was set on the hearth stone in front of a roaring fire. They could see all sorts of pictures in the fire while they were being scrubbed and then, in clean flannel nighties, they toasted their toes before the blaze while grandmother washed out their little white sheepskin collars for Sunday.

You see, in those days, Perth was a pioneer place and water was scarce; it was peddled from door to door, hence it was precious and had to serve various purposes.

I remember my special baths on Saturday night for they were taken in a large tin bath which father bought from an Englishman who loved his tub. The bath had a seat at the side and a special place for soap, and being very tiny, I always felt as if I were being cast into the ocean when I was in its depths. It was more fun to sit on the seat and dabble my toes in the water and pretend I was at the seashore.

But putting all back history aside, I am thinking of our current Saturday night adventure—a drive through Newmarket's Main St. We go to town early for we like to shop without the suffocation attendant a later time and then sit in the car for an hour visiting with friends and watching the world go by. This is fine, for Newmarket on Saturday night is a colorful place. Everyone from infants to the aged are there with the necessary sprinkling of boys on bicycles and dogs, small and big. The stores are well lighted and doing a rushing business and except that one looks with a longing eye at the place where shortening and jelly powders once held sway, one feels we can more than satisfy our needs. Indeed, there is a sense of adventure in going round and seeing what one CAN get and discovering something new to try.

But the real adventure, with a touch of danger to give it added zest, comes when someone remarks, "Well, we'd better make a move homeward." We usually leave just as a lot of people are coming, which adds to the generally chaotic effect.

I can see a stern look settle round the head of the family's mouth as he prepares to launch out into the melee—the seething vortex—which is Newmarket's Main St. on Saturday night. I sit tight and grasp my purse with a "well, here's hoping" feeling as we wiggle and twist to disentangle our car from those before and behind.

Then just as we get our nose out, along comes a huge truck and like a snail withdrawing into its shell, we try to crowd back and then make another attempt. This time all the people on the other side of the street seem to have been filled with a simultaneous desire to cross directly in front of our car.

"At last," I sigh as we move out into the narrow lane, only to find a truck parked right in the road while its driver has departed for an unknown destination and cars behind us begin to honk and unless we want to commit hari kari, we just sit there and take it till the truck driver feels inclined to proceed.

Then you come to a real impasse, cars are parked double and a car is advancing toward you. Drivers from both directions sit and glare and until cars will always be a pause while each waits for the other to DO something. Finally one does and if it's the right thing well and good, if not—what knows? At last the navigation perils are over and we turn on to a quiet country road. How quiet, how peaceful and how SAFE we never realized before.

"Well, that's over," says friend husband and we begin to talk again, for we do NOT talk going up Main St., except for certain dark mutterings on drivers in general and some in particular from the man at the wheel.

Perhaps if Main St. were wider we'd miss the rather terrifying sense of adventure which Saturday night holds, but I think we would all be saved from a few added wrinkles and grey hairs if we knew we could go quietly along without having to be a contortionist, a good snake imitator and a robot as far as nerves are concerned. What do you think?

W.C.T.U. NEWS

ALCOHOL AND HEALTH

By LEONORA STARR
Newmarket W.C.T.U. Press Sec.

Very impressive are the facts furnished by the insurance societies as to the effects of liquor in shortening life. Records show that with a normal death rate of 100 the daily use of four to six glasses of beer caused the rate to rise to 186. The chief medical director of one great company says: "There seems to be no limit within which alcohol may be entirely harmless." Moreover, while the body may take a limited quantity of dangerous substances and completely recover, it is little likely to do so with regard to alcohol, because it is a habit-forming drug. Very few take it "only once."

But, says a liquor propagandist, is it not a fact that men have drunk liquor all through the ages and yet the race has survived? Well, man has survived. He has survived in spite of wars and pestilences, black death and cholera and venereal disease, unsanitary habitations, unsanitary food and swarms of flies buzzing over every family meal. He has survived; but with small credit to the pestilence, the filth, the flies and the booze.

But do we very often hear of people dying of alcoholism? No. "Physicians," says Dr. Lawrence Kolb, assistant surgeon-general of the U.S. Public Health Service, "whenever possible report some other cause for death than alcoholism." Yet New York's mental health figures for 1939, for example, show that alcohol psychosis was the leading cause of insanity and the causes that follow on the list are closely associated with alcohol. Of 77,421 emergency hospital admissions in San Francisco in 1942, 14,626 were drunk on arrival.

What then are our findings? 1. Alcohol is not a food. 2. It is not even a true stimulant. 3. It is a depressant. 4. It is a poison harmful to all the functions of the body. 5. It is a narcotic detrimental to the delicate network of the nervous system and suspending the finer functions of the brain.

The result is seen in accidents and foolish or unseemly conduct. To this might be added that a lessening of mental alertness and control of muscles results even from quantities of alcohol insufficient to cause drunkenness. This renders skilled movements defective or impossible—in mechanical skill, business efficiency or athletic efforts.

In truth, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging. And he that is deceived thereby is not more flowers I've seen recently but I think I've made this plenty long so I'll stop thinking about it and go and weed my flower garden. When I start on this subject I never know when to stop.

Well Started Pigs Market Earlier

Pigs that get off to a good start in life, that do not suffer weaning setbacks and do not have serious illness slow them down are the pigs that reach market at correct weights soonest and make the most money for the farmer.

The critical period in the young pig's life is at three to four weeks of age, when the sow's milk flow begins to fail. If the young pigs are started then on SHUR-GAIN 18% Pig Starter, they become accustomed to solid food early so that the lack of milk is made up by the extra nutrients in the Pig Starter and they forge right ahead, regardless of the lack of mother's milk. Then when weaning time approaches, they are feeding well and suffer far less than do pigs that have not had the same advantage.

A quick start, fast finish and better quality is what Canada needs from her hogs today—and that is what brings bigger profits to you farmers who are raising those hogs! Make certain that YOUR pigs get that fast start by feeding them SHUR-GAIN Pig Starter, from the very first!

BIRTHS

Gladman—At Pictou, N.S., on Wednesday, Aug. 1, 1945, to R/A and Mrs. J. G. Gladman, a son.

Spr. John A. Davidson
Dies in Army Hospital

Spr. John Alexander "Jack" Davidson, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Davidson, Wellington St., died Aug. 3 at Christie St. hospital in Toronto. Spr. Davidson enlisted in the reserve army with the Irish Regiment at the age of 14, and was a member of that unit's pipe band. He had been on active service for over two years and was with R.C.E.M.E. at Aldershot, N.S., looking forward to going overseas, when he injured his spine in a fall on the ice just before last Christmas. In training some weeks later he had a further fall in the gymnasium at Halifax, N.S., and was transferred to hospital for treatment at that centre. As his condition did not improve he was moved to Toronto, and after a trying illness of some months, died at Christie St. hospital on Friday.

He was born at Oakville, and moved to Aurora with his family seven years ago. He attended public and high school here, and was later employed with the Sisman Shoe Co. He played hockey for both the public and high schools and was interested in skiing, swimming and skating. He was a member of Aurora Boys' band, Aurora Victory Chorus, and Aurora United church choir.

The funeral service was held from the family residence on Sunday with full military honors. Rev. Canon F. J. Fife was in charge of the service, and a detachment from Newmarket camp under CSM. Johnston stood guard prior to the service. A detachment from No. 2 district depot under the command of Sgt. J. Knowles provided the pallbearers and a cortege for the funeral. At the cemetery, the firing party fired three volleys and Bugler C. Dickens sounded Last Post and Reveille.

The deceased had a sister, Philip, and a sister, Jane.

TOWN TO GIVE
TO SERVICEMEN

Reeve C. E. Sparks, Deputy-Reeve Asa Cook and Councillor William West, along with Mayor Ross Linton, will form the committee to honor Aurora's active service men and women and plan future celebrations. The committee starts work at once and expects to reach early decisions.

"There is no time to lose, we should have the thing well planned as quickly as possible," said Mayor Linton. "It is going to be a difficult job deciding on what we are to present them with, who are entitled and how much we will spend, but we mustn't lag behind."

After a discussion by members presentation of a signet ring and an address of welcome was approved, if financially practicable. Councillor West and Reeve Sparks will obtain the prices and sample specimens while Deputy-Reeve Cook will compile the list of names. The Red Cross, Navy League, Board of Trade and Aurora churches will be requested to aid Mr. Cook in straightening out the lists. The general feeling was that the municipal authority should bear the entire expense of any presentations or banquet.

"In that way all will have an equal part. To ask for contributions only means touching the same people who always subscribe," said Deputy-Reeve Cook. "We all owe our boys plenty and I am sure no one will be grudge what we spend," said Councillor West.

"I would like to see all who volunteered for active service honored in some way," said Councillor Rod Smith. "It is nobody's fault if they didn't go overseas, they all volunteered to serve any place."

"The committee will have to rule on what's to be done. Let's get the list ready and the prices as soon as we can, as well as getting public opinion," said the mayor.

JUVENILES HAND 3-2
DEFEAT TO MILLIKEN

Aurora juveniles took the measure of Milliken in the final game of the regular Lions league schedule at Aurora on Monday night, thereby sending Newmarket to the top. The score was 3-2 over the six-inning route. Aurora took a 2-0 lead through Row's wildness, only to have the visitors eke out the necessary tying runs. In the sixth, Milliken got two men on, and came within an ace of tying the score, but Doolittle turned a dropped third strike into an out at third and Henry fanned the last batter.

Aurora opened the sixth with a double by Doolittle, and Ronnie Simmons singled home the winning run. Darkness prevented the seventh inning being played. Frank Weyms did a fine job as plate umpire.

Aurora: Doolittle c, Henry p, McGhee 1b, Simmons 3b, N. Nigh ss, Kyle 3b, Smith lf, Munnell cf, Cook rf.

Council Agrees To
Use Of Town Hall
By Public School

Aurora town council, on motion from Reeve C. E. Sparks and Deputy-Reeve Asa Cook, approved the use by Aurora public school board of the present quarters of the Aurora Public Library and the R.C.O.C. recreation room in the upper part of the old town hall as classrooms on this fall, at the council meeting Tuesday. The property committee was instructed to secure quotations on plumbing and heating and to negotiate rental terms with the public school board. The council will now confer with Aurora public library officials as to the most suitable site for the library, but it seems almost assured that the library will occupy Health Hall owned by the public school board, and occupied by the Aurora Gospel church.

Donald Galbraith, deacon of the Gospel church, appeared at the meeting to request the aid of council in maintaining Health Hall as the site of the church.

"The building was built for a church, and we believe it should be maintained as a house of God," stated Mr. Galbraith. "We wish to remain where we are, our congregation is now between 55 and 60, and will be around 75 to 80 shortly. There must be other places where the library could be housed, but there is no other place suitable for a church. We are definitely doing a type of work no other church in town is doing, and we ask council's co-operation."

"We sympathize with your position, but we do not own Health Hall. It is the property of the school board," said Mayor Ross Linton.

"Yes, but you will be interested in finding a place for the library, if they have to move from where they are," said Mr. Galbraith.

Dr. C. J. Devins, chairman of the public school board addressed council, requesting the use of the upper part of the town hall as previously discussed.

"It is interesting to note that 25 years ago Health Hall was put up for sale by the Disciples church, and even then it was being considered as a suitable library site. The church people made a shrewd bargain. They played a bid by the library board, neither one knowing the other was bidding, the school board buying the property for $3,000," said Dr. Devins.

"The building was bought to hold the corner and expropriate more land later for a new school. At that time it seemed urgent for a new school but a few years later we didn't need one, but the situation now is as it has been for some years. We do need a new school. Trinity Hall was not satisfactory as a classroom site last year. Mechanics' Hall is not practicable, and it would be too costly to renovate Health Hall. The board saw the old town hall, and are satisfied with the classroom facilities available. I want to congratulate council on the way they have improved the building. It looks like a two-year proposition for school rooms in the building, before we would have things arranged. We have building under consideration. If we don't get the space in the town hall, we will use Health Hall but we must know now."

"There is a popular feeling for the library at Health Hall. It is central, close to the school, and old people do not have to climb steps. It will fit in with future plans of the board. Arrangements made for the use of the building as a church were always considered as temporary by the board. We originally rented it to Faith Baptist church as a means of accommodating them until they could build as they intended to. If we don't get the town hall we'll have to spend money we don't want to spend now."

Councillor Fisher expressed sympathy with the Gospel church's position, and asked if any other sites were available for the library. Mr. Galbraith suggested several possible places, all upstairs.

"I am certain the library board will not wish to move unless they can get a downtown location. They can build if they have to, but it will cost the town plenty," said Dr. Devins.

"Lots of people have spoken to me in favor of a ground site for the library," said Mayor Linton.

"While I sympathize with Mr. Galbraith and the church, sooner or later they will have to move from the building," said Dr. Devins.

"I am sure the library board expects to go to Health Hall if we ask them to move from the town hall," said Councillor R. V. Smith. "They would be here tonight if they thought otherwise."

"Co-operation all round is best. We will deal with the matter tonight and try and help Mr. Galbraith find some place," said Mayor Linton.

After the withdrawal of Mr. Galbraith and Dr. Devins the council discussed several possibilities where the church might be located, but most of these had been considered unsuitable by Mr. Galbraith. The council will now meet with the library board to consider the transfer of library quarters.

Exhibition Game Swells
Lions Club Fund By $13.24

Thirteen dollars and twenty-four cents was raised for the Aurora Lions fund by a collection taken at an exhibition clash between Roselawn Dairy of the Wanless Park senior league and a combined R.C.O.C.-navy team last week. The game attracted several hundred people and was well played except for one inning by both teams. The visitors took the decision 10-6.

The Aurora service team had "Joint" McComb on the mound and he pitched as good a game as his rival, Ken Darling, but was given poor support at times. Aurora took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on three walks and hits by O'Gorman and Butler. The visitors crashed for five in the second as the Aurora infield fell apart. A late rally for four runs as Hook replaced Darling just fell short of tying the game. Crewson and Palmer led the visitors and "Red" Canning sparked Aurora.

With the York Lions baseball league completed, the play-offs have now been reached and will get under way without delay. In the juvenile series, the first place Milliken club will meet Aurora, which finished third, with the first game carded for Milliken on Friday night and the return game at Aurora either Monday or Tuesday of next week. It will be a best of three series. Newmarket and Richmond Hill meet in the other half of the bracket.

In the bantam series, Richmond Hill will meet Aurora, with Markham and Stouffville leading in another series. Both series will be on a best of three basis.

MARK DERRY DAY

Aurora Black Knights will celebrate Derry Day at St. Catharines on Saturday.

Early Closing Hours For Gas Stations Held Over

The request for early closing hours on Friday and Saturday and all day Sunday as petitioned for in June by the majority of gas and oil vendors was laid over for a special meeting by the council Tuesday night. Mr. Moore, Aurora service station operator, appeared before council requesting the enactment of a by-law. "My company is in favor of the closing hours and I think it time something was done," he said.

"The question of regulating hardware stores presents a difficulty. They would have to close entirely according to the proposed by-law," said Mayor Ross Linton. "Because they sell gas and oil they would come under it."

"The service station and garage men are not worrying about the hardware. I think they could close only gas pumps and still stay open," said Mr. Moore. "We will have to get a ruling from the solicitor on that," said the mayor.

"What about tourists and people passing through town? Are the garages considering them?" asked Deputy-Reeve A. Cook.

"Most cities and towns have closing by-laws already," said Councillor Elwood Davis. "In North Bay, a big tourist centre, the pumps are closed all day Sunday and nobody suffers."

"There are two service stations at least which haven't signed the petition and intend to stay open. There is no use passing a by-law unless it can be enforced. In its present form I don't think this one can," said the mayor.

Councillor William West suggested an early meeting of garage and service station operators and owners, as well as the hardware store proprietors and council agreed on this.

A letter was read from several residents of north Yonge St. complaining of noises emanating from Stewart's garage which keeps open all night for repairs and also of the barking of a dog on the premises. Council decided to bring the matter before Mr. Stewart again before taking further action.

The matter of the spotlight at Yonge and Wellington Sts. was left over because the Department of Highways requested the signing of a "connecting link agreement" before assuming 70 percent of the cost. This would give the province control over the entire street including gas pumps. "It might pay us to put in our spotlight. I think we can get a good share from the county," said Reeve C. E. Sparks. Council will obtain all necessary data before deciding further.

CORRECTION

It was Miss Margaret McChes, not Miss Elizabeth McChes, as previously reported, who has accepted a post on the staff of Weston public school after teaching last winter at Blackburn's school, north of Kettleby. Miss McChes will be replaced by George Billings.

INSTALL NEW MOTOR

A new motor has been installed at the Aurora disposal plant at a cost of $411. It was purchased from J. C. Bodfish.

AURORA PLANS
BOOSTER PUMP

Following the recommendation of insurance underwriters and an engineer, Aurora council has authorized the purchase of a new water pump for the waterworks property at a cost of $1,082 plus tax, shipping and installation. It will have a pumping capacity of 500 gallons per minute and with present facilities will provide a pumping capacity of 950 gallons per minute. Councillor A. N. Fisher explained that this pump would be used in the summer when the demand was heavy and the 225-gallon pump at the waterworks would work all winter. There is a 225-gallon pump at the Nisbet well. Old pumps and engines not in use will be sold if possible.

"It is too bad we didn't put this one in the first place," said Reeve Sparks. "We didn't have all the information then," said Mr. Fisher. "We have increased our capacity by 425 gallons per minute since then," said Mr. Cook.

"Our water supply has held up well but there are some complaints at times of low pressure on main street," said Mayor Ross Linton. "This should keep the pressure up."

HAVE 59TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Green, Temperance St., celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Green of Toronto were present for the occasion.

NEWMARKET JUVENILES
TRIM AURORA SENIORS

Newmarket juveniles edged out Aurora seniors 10-9 in a scheduled Lions league game at Newmarket Friday night. Both teams are in the play-offs so the win did not effect their relative standing. Newmarket gained an early lead as Aurora committed six errors in one inning, Tommy McHale hitting a timely triple.

Stew. Henry made his debut on the Aurora mound and pitched effectively despite poor support. Ivan Gibson, Newmarket southpaw, pitched good ball for six innings, when he was relieved by Kenny Broughton. Aurora went for six runs in this frame, an out-at-second base following Winger's smart peg retiring the necessary third in the nick of time.

Billy McGhee turned in a fine game for Aurora, as did Bill Munnell. Earl Rose made his first appearance of the season with the locals. Rutledge and Brown looked good for the winners.

SAILOR MARRIES
HALIFAX GIRL

A quite wedding took place at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Thomas White, Harrison Ave., on Saturday, Aug. 4, when Miss Evelyn Lorraine Downey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Downey, Halifax, became the bride of Seaman Murray Allen, R.C.N.V.R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Allen, Wellington St. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. White.

The bride wore a shell-pink triple sheer afternoon gown, with blue gloves, blue veil and blue flowered headpiece. Her flowers were gardenias. Mrs. Irene Broome, Aurora, was matron of honor. She wore a blue crepe frock with pink hat and pink accessories. Her flowers were roses. Joseph Broome was best man.

The couple left on a short wedding trip and the groom, who has served with the Canadian navy for the past three years, has volunteered for service in the Pacific and expects to report for duty soon.

34 CHILDREN REGISTER

Around 30 children registered on the opening day of the church summer vacation school at Trinity parish hall this week, and more are expected. In the absence of L. C. Lee, Alfred Williamson, officially opened the school. Robert Moore, director of music in the Aurora schools, has been added to the staff.

Many Return Home
In Recent Drafts
From Great Britain

Aurora and district boys continue to return from overseas, some expecting to be rehabilitated to civilian life, others bound for the Pacific theatre, but all in good health and glad of the sight of the old home town.

First pair of brothers to arrive home are Sprs. John and Ross Griffith, sons of Mrs. Della Griffith, Victoria St. Both boys enlisted with the Royal Canadian Engineers in 1940, and proceeded overseas after training at Petawawa camp early in 1941. Through training and warfare the two managed to keep together most of the time. John is married, his wife residing at Queensville, while "Buck" is single. They received a warm welcome from relatives and friends. Both boys came home on the same ship as their commander in chief, General Crerar.

After an extensive tour of duty overseas, Ft. Lieut. John Sisman, D.F.C., the only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sisman of Aurora, arrived home Wednesday. He enlisted in 1941 and after training at Malton, Jarvis and Toronto, did instructional work in Canada before proceeding overseas. He was awarded the D.F.C. a few months ago. He is married and has a small son.

Not known to many Aurorans except by name is Hon. Capt. B. P. Smyth, R.C.A.F., of Metcalfe St. Capt. Smyth, former rector of the Anglican church at Alliston, enlisted in 1942, going overseas the next year, at which time his wife and family moved to Aurora. He has served as chaplain with the airforce in North Ireland, England, and other points overseas.

An Aurora boy whose parents reside in Newmarket now is Pte. Harold "Sandy" Edwards, formerly of Gurnett St. Pte. Edwards enlisted in the artillery in 1940 and went overseas in 1941. He transferred to ordnance and saw service for two years in Sicily and Italy. He touched the western front on his way home. He has volunteered for service in the Pacific.

Sgmn. James Farley, son of Robert Farley, former Aurora resident, arrived in Toronto last week. He enlisted in 1942 with the 48th Highlanders and went overseas the next year. He saw action in France and was wounded there, but went back to duty again. He is a Pacific volunteer.

FO Keith Southwood, son of Mrs. Charles Southwood, Wells St., arrived home from India last week. A well known Aurora tennis player, FO Southwood enlisted in 1941, going overseas the next year. He went to India early in 1943 and came to Canada from there, being among the first Canadians to arrive at the port of Quebec.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Lord Byron Nelson, with nonchalance and a display of steady, if not too spectacular golf, captured the Canadian open as expected. Nelson had the disadvantage of large galleries for the entire three days but he showed good sportsmanship and geniality throughout and modesty too—all attributes of a great champion in addition to mechanical ability. His easy style belied the real class he possessed.

We were wrong about the total score by ten strokes, but we had no idea the greens would be so heavy and there would be so few one-putt greens. The high wind on Friday played havoc too, with the long ball hitters and no one could foresee the difficulty that arose on some of the par three holes.

Sam Sneed, whom we followed on Friday, was away off form but in better humor than in any other tournament. Being in the navy has done Sam a world of good. He is a human being now instead of a cocky, superman type. Too bad the great Jug McSpaden, always a favorite with Canadians, had to spoil his record by squawking unmercifully. Gordy DeLaat, ex-Aurora R.C.O.C. hockey star, was playing fine golf when we saw him but he is in the throes of changing his style and his play is suffering a bit.

Saw a host of well-known faces including Dr. Hal Leary, Herm Gilroy, Wes McKnight, Ralph Webb, former professional at the Aurora Golf club, Bobby Hewitson, Harry Lambert, Charlie Ryan, Hugh McRae and Gord Sinclair and enjoyed brief chitchats with most.

Fred Haas, the New Orleans amateur, caught our fancy with his fine play and we also liked diminutive Tony Penna who wore a red beret, dark blue shirt and grey blue trousers, for his humor and skill. Bob Gray, according to the oos and ahs we heard, still rates tops with the heart-throb crowd who attend the open as a social spectacle. Alex. McClumpha, veteran greenkeeper of the Thornhill club and well-known North York resident, deserves a big hand for the condition of the course.

While we think of it, Colin Nisbet has re-christened the Aurora Golf club and it is now known as The Highlands, according to the sign outside the course. The lads still continue to rave about the condition of the course.

Gar Doolittle, former North York high school track star, now in training at Aldershot, N.S., for the Pacific trip, finished second in the 440-yard dash held in the camp championship meet. The time was 60 seconds. At Debert, N.S., Sgt. Jimmy Oltcher, former member of the first track team at Newmarket camp, romped home in front in the quarter mile in 54 secs, as well as running on the winning relay team. Another ex-Newmarket camp track star, Lieut. Jimmy Holmes, ex-sprints champion of M.D. 2, finished second in the century and furlong dashes held at London in the M.D. 1 championships recently. Lieut. Holmes is now stationed at Chatham basic training centre.

Unnoticed by far too many sports fans this season are the members of the Newmarket juvenile baseball club who have reached the play-offs at the top of the heap in the York Lions league and on their present form look capable of taking the championship unless they run into some tough breaks. Stan Winger, who is 16 and husky for his age, is greatly improved this season and with the possible exception of Ken Schell of Stouffville, is about the best receiver in the circuit. Bats in the clean up spot and possesses a good throwing arm.

Ken Broughton heads the cantal town pitching staff and possesses a fair assortment of curves and hooks as well as a sweeping drop. He has speed and strength too and right now looks as good as any hurler in the league. Hewes of Milliken included. Iyan Gibson, son of Eddie Gibson, is the southpaw member of the mound staff and while not possessing the same stuff as Broughton, is coming along fast. He can take a turn in the outfield if needed. Tommy Dales, son of Mayor Lowell Dales, is employed at Lake Simcoe for the summer but pitched good ball in the early part of the schedule and will be ready for the semi-finals.

Tommy McHale, son of Bernie McHale and a converted outfielder, is playing first, a spot his father played in other years. It looks as if there is something to the claim about heredity for he is showing plenty of savoir faire. He is the lead-off man and generally makes first via a walk or hit. The lads call him "Van Robays". Ken Thoms, son of Harry Thoms, is at the keystone sack and is playing a steady game. He looks as if he will surpass Uncle Chuck Thoms before too many years. He's nicknamed "Motts". Jimmy Rutledge is the pick of the league shortstops, covering acres of ground and pegging well. "Pee-Wee" bats in the second slot. Johnny Palmateer of hockey fame is the regular hot corner occupant but right now is on the sidelines following a bout with old man appendix. He is very fast and accurate in his throws. John McTavish, utility infielder, can play most spots well and has done a good job in Palmateer's shoes. He possesses plenty of natural ability and will develop over the years.

Don Brown in centrefield is one of the best fielders in the loop and this year has come through with some timely hits as well as sensational catches. He answers with a smile to the greeting of "Bowler". Elgin Monkman and Harry Hill complete the outergarden trio and with some seasoning and fielding practice, they will stand up with the best of them. Hill is a neat base-runner, an apt too often overlooked by the kids. We can't miss handling an armful of orchids to our old friend George Haskett, for the grand job he is doing. Being manager, coach, keeper of the wampum and arranger of transportation is indeed a four-star job and one deserving a lot more support and encouragement than George is getting. He isn't complaining, however, and he figures he is well repaid for his efforts when his charges get out and battle it out all the way. The boys, needless to say, think George is tops and as the season draws to a close the benefit of his coaching is more and more apparent.

Haskett hopes to see the Newmarket town league revived and he agrees with yours truly that Newmarket missed a golden opportunity in not having a bantam team this season. Fred Hall and Fred Evans have done some swell work this year at the Lions park and these two gents should be able to get bantam baseball humming and bring needed replacements for Haskett's team. We don't need to mention that there is plenty of playing talent available, who only need a bit of coaching. How about some support, Mr. and Mrs. Fan? Why not make it a point to see some of the play-off games and dig down a bit deeper when the coffee pot is passed.

In the juvenile series Aurora, Newmarket and Richmond Hill are bracketed with Milliken and in the bantam, it is Aurora, Richmond Hill, Stouffville and Milliken. As previously released, Richmond Hill will enter the O.A.B.A. midget playdowns and Stouffville will enter the bantam series with all-star teams. Stouffville tried to get a juvenile entry in the O.A.B.A. but were too late. Despite a decision reached at the league meeting this year, there is likely to be juvenile ball in the district next season.

Newmarket camp softballers are currently engaged in the Toronto garrison league playdowns. Here is the way it works out. Army drivers, navy, R.C.A.F. and No. 23 are all participating in a round-robin series. As soon as you lose two games you're out and the tops two teams clash in the finals.

The fans got quite a surprise the other night when they saw Joe Buda, classy young hurler of the Mother Parker's Davisville senior club, take the mound for Newmarket mid-way through the game against army drivers. Buda, a decided addition to the mound staff, is not a soldier but a civilian. Then how come he is allowed to play in a service league playdown?

Here is the way Johnny Callaghan, one of the masterminds of the Newmarket club, explains it. Navy, R.C.A.F. and army drivers have all lost players through discharges but they are still performing for these clubs as ex-servicemen civilians, due to a shortage of capable players in the centres involved. Consequently, the Newmarket team were granted permission to play one civilian on their team and by coincidence Buda was sitting in the park and was rushed into the game. The whole situation doesn't seem to make sense, at least we've never seen service sports run that way before but there it is. Buda, of Czech origin, is one of the most promising young hurlers in the Toronto district.

Charlie Ryan, maestro of Roselawns of the Wanless league who showed to advantage in Aurora recently, answers to the northern challenge for a post-season series with the announcement that if the dates can be satisfactorily arranged he's all for it. Richmond Hill have no softball park this year and would probably inkling of what was going on. It would seem to indicate two things: First, that Ross expects to have a number of players, now in the armed forces, returning to the line-up, and second, that maestro Ross and Dit Clap-per figure that the Newmarket boy and Shewchuk have passed their peak and are on the down grade. Seems strange since it is only two years ago since Cain led the league in scoring and last year, while not as effective as usual, he didn't do too badly.

We understand Herb is not adverse to the trade. Herb will be 33 in late December and has been in the bigtime since the season of 1933-34. He will therefore be starting his 13th year in professional company and after all those years, while comparatively a young man, you can't expect to be as good as ever.

It will be his fourth N.H.L. club, Montreal Maroons, Les Canadiens, Boston and now New York. His style of play should fit in well with that of the Rangers. The whole deal came as a surprise and we understand even as the news was announced Shewchuk had been talking with Ross and wasn't given even an Clare Palmer, the giant first sacker, is a nice target to fire to and a long ball hitter. The rest of the regular infield were away the other night. Doug Copeland is at second base, Jimmy Neil, ex-Aurora Bombers, is at short and Hank McGouran is at third. They field and hit well. Art Crean, another Hill veteran, holds down one infield berth with "Monk" Harrison and Johnny Crewson completing a starting trio. Bennett and Young, both heavy hitters, are available for outergarden work. Then there are the utility players, Alex. Douglas and George Rennie, both of whom played last week. All in all, Ryan has a first rate club assembled and one that is likely to go places in senior B softball. It would make a dandy series to match them against the Barrie winners, or Newmarket camp.

Norm Briley, who ordinarily guards the goal spot for Syd Bowman's Newmarket soccer team which is still rolling along in fine style, is one of the outstanding performers in the T. and D. senior series. To show his versatility, Briley recently vacated the posts against Slovaks to bang home four goals almost single-handed and lead his mates to a brilliant 6-2 victory. A player like that certainly is a decided advantage to any team. Charlie Thoms, former Newmarket Redmen hockeyist and Newmarket-Aurora baseballer, has been visiting in the district. Now in Kirkland Lake, Charlie looks in the pink and like so many former district athletes who have retired from sport, has added quite a few pounds. Herb Cain will be a member of Lester Patrick's New York Rangers this winter according to a dispatch from Boston. The Bruins traded defenceman Jack Shewchuk and Herbie for defenceman Bob Dill and cash. On paper it doesn't make sense as Dill didn't show to any special advantage last season. It would seem to indicate two things: First, that Ross expects to have a number of players, now in the armed forces, returning to the line-up, and second, that maestro Ross and Dit Clap-per figure that the Newmarket boy and Shewchuk have passed their peak and are on the down grade. honor by Dame Fortune more than once. Let's hope 1945-46 will see him get the trophy. We imagine Herb will more or less prove a nemesis to his old club. That seems to be the way it works out, but Cain will leave the Bruins for his new post with no resentment. There will be quite a few hockey changes this winter. Eddie Shore, the former great defence star with Buffalo the past few years, has moved south to run the Forth Worth, Texas, club in the American association. Fort Worth is owned by Mrs. Gene Carrigan, widow of the onetime manager of the Boston Red Sox baseball club and she is, we believe, the only female hockey owner in captivity. Dallas, Tulsa, Kansas City, Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul will make up the circuit just coming to life again. There will be plenty of opportunities for Canadian boys who can perform passably well at the winter sport. Shore says he already has his team lined up.

Leroy Goldsworthy, former Boston-Canadians player who spent last season on the west coast, is slated to look after the Dallas team. Out of a berth and with no announcement made yet is Cooney Weiland, former Boston star, who has been coaching Hershey Bears. Normie Mann, former Newmarket junior, latterly with Pittsburgh Hornets before joining the navy, is likely to receive his ticket any day now and be back in action again. That goes for Gaye Stewart of Toronto Leafs and Bob Goldham, who is expected to fill the shoes of Reg Hamilton, traded by the Leafs to Chicago.

George Gee, former Owen Sound junior who played in Halifax with the tars and was one of the stars of the senior service league there, is reported as coming to Toronto as part of the Hamilton deal. Only fault Gee has is a hot temper which flares out quite frequently.

With artificial ice a certainty by late November, Barrie Colts have made a bid for a junior A rating and are likely to be accepted into the O.H.A. top junior series. No definite word has yet been received but it is no secret the Barrie club is scouting players and looking for a coach of high rating. It is quite an expense to run a junior A club but Barrie figures that a top-ranking coach is necessary to get off to a good start and that junior B hockey will not pay as well as junior A.

St. Louis Flyers, which have a tie-up with Barrie, expect to train there and they doubtless have plenty of good material which will be turned over to Barrie.

We understand that Marlboros and Young Rangers will amalgamate to form one good Toronto junior entry under Eddie Wilder. Other junior entries would be Oshawa, St. Mike's, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Galt and Brantford. Junior A hockey would doubtless pay well in Barrie.

Jimmy Grainger of Richmond Hill, one of the main cogs in the junior set-up down south, informs us that Charlie Rowntree and practically all of last year's good junior team will be out to seek the junior B title in full force. The Hill is just about due, too. Jimmy has some new prospects in line and it is no secret to say that the Hill expect to land Red Palmater, the good netminder of Newmarket juniors, and Harry Caradonna, who played on defence with last year's Redmen. Both boys will be as welcome as the flowers in spring and Grainger is of the opinion that Caradonna is a vastly underrated player who has everything required to bolster the Hill defence. If Herman Easterhouse looked much better last winter when he transferred to the Hill from Newmarket, so Caradonna may too. Herb Rose and Mac Clement will both be back in action for the Hill. It was the loss of Clement that cost the Hill the group last winter.

Personally, we wouldn't be a bit surprised to see Tom Forgie, the brilliant young Markham forward, in action with the Hill either. Forgie practised with the Hill last winter and just about played with them.

The rumors floating about about next winter's hockey are that Bert Tunney and Andy Closs are toying with the idea of an Aurora junior club (that one is perhaps a year away but Bert may come through); that Jimmy Walker and the Newmarket club will give up junior hockey and concentrate on winning the local juvenile group which would include Sutton, Bradford, Newmarket, Pickering College, St. Andrew's College, Richmond Hill, Aurora and possibly Stouffville or Markham and Unionville. Bolton also want to enter the local group. Strong O.M.H.A. groups in both juvenile and bantam are a definite thing for next year, although the proposed entries may vary. If No. 23 B.T.C. remains in its present status as a training camp and nobody appears to know the definite answer right now, you can depend on a strong team from that centre. Personally, we expect to see service teams allowed to compete in competition with civilian teams next winter.

It may sound a bit whacky to be talking hockey now but those nights are getting a bit shorter

The Era and Express office will be open Saturday evenings from 7.30 to 9.30, and not Saturday afternoons, for the summer months.

and as you can see there are plenty of people already considering all the angles. Those who are interested in hockey in the various municipalities would be well advised to get the whole thing straightened out right now before it's too late. Some of those resting on their laurels may find most of their players ready to play with another club next season. For those interested, we won't have to say more, they'll be in there pitching, but from past experience we do know that too much is left to chance and there is not sufficient planning or effort made.
